THE SAZERAC BAR

More than just a bar, this landmark has kept the drinks and conversations flowing for decades. Step back in time with the signature cocktails, stately glamor and relaxed ambiance offered by the historic Sazerac Bar.

Named after what many consider to be the world's first mixed drink, the Sazerac Bar carries as much history as its potable namesake. Just gazing at the famous Paul Ninas murals flanking the African walnut bar takes you back to the grandeur of old New Orleans – a time when Huey P. Long would stroll in, order a Ramos Gin Fizz, and spend the next couple of hours talking to his constituents.

Restored to reflect the spirit of the original establishment, elegant bar stools and plush banquettes invite locals and visitors alike to enjoy hand-crafted cocktails and free-flowing conversations. Make your night one to remember by starting it off in style at a New Orleans institution.

Hours: Open daily at 11am

Fresh baked pastries are made daily, including our signature Waldorf Astoria Classic Red Velvet Cake.

Stop in and enjoy the warm, comfortable décor that invites you to sit down and savor all the tastes of New Orleans; all served with a dash of True Waldorf Service.

DOMENICA

Experience an authentic taste of Italy with hand-picked, fresh ingredients and vibrant flavors at Domenica restaurant – a rustic Italian eatery with a modern twist.

When Executive Chef Alon Shaya lived in Italy, Sundays were his most treasured day of the week because he was free to explore and sample the incredible food of Italy. The core components of Italian Sunday meals are traditionally cured meats, pasta, pizza and of course great wine. When Chef Alon returned to New Orleans, he sought to capture the things he loved most about Italy and pour them into his restaurant. The restaurant was named for that cherished day of the Italian week, Domenica.

The team at Domenica Restaurant cooks regional Italian cuisine while incorporating Louisiana ingredients. They treasure the resources that come from the gulf, bayous and farms surrounding New Orleans. Their chefs pride themselves on making fresh pastas by hand daily. Whether it's al dente rigatoni or pillowy gnocchi, it's made in their kitchen. They roast many vegetables and meats in the same wood oven that crisps their Napolitano style pizzas.

Since opening in 2009, the menu of homemade pasta, antipasti and wood-fired pizza has received rave reviews. Food & Wine named Domenica a Top Restaurant of 2012, and Gayot selected it as a Hottest Restaurant of 2014. Gambit Weekly and The Times-Picayune regularly feature Domenica as a top restaurant in their dining guides, and menu items have been featured in Bon Appetit, Food & Wine, and Food52. In 2015, Alon won the prestigious James Beard Foundation's Best Chef: South award.

Chef Alon's passion for food has expanded into two other restaurants: Pizza Domenica, an Uptown, more casual spin-off of Domenica that opened in 2014, and Shaya, a modern Israeli restaurant that takes a warm and welcoming approach to the cuisine and culture of Alon's Israeli upbringing, which opened in 2015.
